A QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

The Circuit Court of Sangamon county yesterday decided that it had jurisdiction over railroad cases sought to be taken to the federal courts by the Chicago and Alton Railroad Company and refused to send them up to the Circuit

pany and refused to send them up to the Circuit Court of the United States. This, of course, involves a direct conflict of jurisdiction between the State and United States courts. The writ of certiorari issued by the latter was imperative upon the State court, and its refusal to obey the writ is therefore a clear case of contempt.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

The Estate of Mme. Jumel-The Suit of Chase vs. Bowen-A Decree for the

Not long since the suit in equity of Nelson Coase, Eliza Jumei Pery and Paul R. G. Pery, her husband, and William I Chase, citizens of the State of New York, vs. George Washington Bowen, a citizen of the State of Rhode Island, was argued at considerable length in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Biatchford, Mr. Charles O'Conor and Mr. J. C. Carter appearing as counsel for the plaintuis, and Mr. L. S. Chatfield, Mr. C. Shaffer and Mr. Sawyer for the defendant. This suit was instituted for the purpose of restraining the defendant, Bowen, from bringing any more suits for the purpose of evicting the plainting from the property, known as the Jumel property, altuate at Fort Washington, and which nad been devised to the plainting under deeds and settlements executed by Mme. Jumel several years before her death. The defendant, Bowen, brought an action in the United States Circuit Court for the purpose of ejecting Mr. Chase and his simily from the possession of this property, Bowen claiming that he was the liegitumate son of kime. Jumel, and, as such, had a right, under the laws of the State of New York, to inherit real estate from his mother. On the trial of this case, the jury disagreed, sax being in lavor of Bowen extracted in consequence of bad chealth. The case was brought to a second trial before Judge William D. Shipman and a special or strock jury, and after the equity suit above alluded to, charging that Bowen appeals to the Supreme Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, to inherit real estate iron his mother. On the trial of this case the jury disagreed, sax being in lavor of Bowen appeals to the Supreme Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks, the Court of the United States of the State of New Porks of State of New Porks of Bowen appeals to the Supreme Court of the United States of the State of New Porks of State of New Porks of New Pork Shaffer and Mr. Sawyer for the defendant. Judge Blatchford has written on the back of the Proposed decree the following words:—"The proposed decree the following words:—"The within decree, omitting the part in brackets, will be entered unless there are some formal maccuracies in it. Give notice of settlement."

Counsel on both sides will meet in the course of a few days and agree upon the precise terms of the decree to be entered.

Mr. Nelson Chase and his children—who are the heirs of Mary Junel, the adopted daughter of Stephen Junel and Mme. Jumel, his wile—claim that the property in question, so far as it came from the estate of Stephen Junel, was settled upon Mr. Chase's children by irrevocable instruments and conveyances, drawn by Chancellor Kent, and that Mine. Jumel never had any substantial title to it: and that, so far as respects any property which Mine. Juniel acquired nerself by purchase—she having wrongiully conveyed to bond nate purchasers large portions of the estate settled upon the heirs of Mary Junel, as above mentioned—had subjected herself to a liability to make good to them the property thus diverted by conveying to them lands of equal value, and consequently, as they claim, all such property could be recovered in equity by them towards satisfying this hability. The decree granted by Judge Blatchlord is based upon the ground that it is contrary to equity for Bowen to be suing the present possessors of the property in actions in courts of law, because if there were any foundation for Bowen's claim (as Bowen alleges there is) it would show that he had only a bare legal title, while Mr. Chase and his children have the whole equitable interest; so that, as Mr. Chase and his family contend, even if Bowen should recover in an action of ejectment in a court of law, a court of equity would compel him to reconvey to them all he recovered.

The bill in this case was filed by the plaintiff to recover damages for alleged infringement of a patent for "improvement in ladies" bonnets." The patent was for a net fabric, made of alternate thick and thin threads. Very strong arguments were addressed to the Court in favor of the patent; but the learned Judge decides that it was not a patentable invention to make a fabric with some threads stronger than they were before. He accordingly dismisses the bill. Mr. J. Van Santvoord was counsel for the complainant, and Mr. A. V. Briesen for the defendant.

On the contrary, Mr. Yturia says he took only ninety baies, which belonged to him, and that being this action he never heard of Mr. Clements claiming to own more than eighty bales of the cotton. It is quite mixed up case, and the stories are rather conflicting. Most of the cotton is said to have been sent to Mexico during the war, on account of advances made to the Confederate government. Application was made to reduce Mr. Yturia's ball to $25,000. This the Judge refused to do, but reduced it to $50,000. Thus the case stands at present.

Mr. Augustus J. Burbank, the Illinois farmer

This boy, who lives in the immedate neighborhood, was in the street in the middle of the night without any shoes at about the time the fact of the burglary was found out, and he was arrested on suspicion; but the evidence went to show that he had been at home with his mother until then, and that she had sent him out to took after a younger son of hers, whom she missed when she woke up, and who had a habit of sleeping in the street on neighboring door steps, and who sometimes was taken to the station house. Gilmore was acquitted.

Mr. Hugh L. Brinckley, the defendant, was recalled by his counsel. On his re-direct examination by Mr. Anthon he stated again that he and the plaintiff were diring under false colors, and that he might have relerred to her as his wife, but did not think that he had done so; he purchased a plain gold ring for the blaintiff some time after they were at Mrs. Beam's; they were walking in Broadway when she requested him to buy this ring; she selected it herself; he had nover promised her this ring, but the purchase was decided upon then and there.

In the Court of Sessions yesterday George Pendergrast was tried for stealing a horse from Wilham Vredenburg, of New Lots, who had given him the use of his stable. J. M. Coman, Clerk of the Chancery Court of Memphis, says in his deposition that he knew Lizzie Charles in luka, in 1861 and 1802. His statements in regard to her "general reputation for chastity" were excluded. Mr. Anthon wanted to read the interrogatories put to other witnesses in regard to the morality of the plaintiff. Mr. Beach objected to the reading of questions which had been excluded by the Court as tending to influence the jury. lueace the jury.

Mr. Anthou said that he wanted to let it appear on the record that this question had been put to a number of witnesses.

Mr. John G, Phinney, a lawyer, iormery of Memphis, but lately of New York, says he was called by the defendant in connection with a settlement

STATE TREASURER RAINES.

It is Charged that He Is a Raving Maniac-A Species of Religious Frenzy. An Albany despatch to the Utics Herald, under

An Albany despatch to the Utica Herald, under date or the 20th, says:—

Thomas Raines, the Treasurer, is a raving lunatic. He is incid ior brief intervals, but in the main he is stark mad. The first marked exhibition of this condition was made yesterday. His insanity takes the shape of rehigious irenzy, and he prays and exhorts with frantic fervor. Mr. Raines is of a highly nervous organization, which is very excitable and sensitive. His physical strength is rather slender. He has been taxed very severely in many ways during the past new weeks, and has finally given way to the strain imposed upon him. The attack is so violent as to excite the serious apprehension of his friends. Dr. Hun regards the case with concern. Dr. Gray was sent for yesterday, but, being away from home, he has not yet reached the city. This misiortune of Mr. Raines profoundly affects his friends and acquaintances here; for he is greatly esteemed by those who know him. The hope is induiged that he may be soon restored to sanity and health by rest and the use of fit remedies.

State Treasurer Raines is quiet and comfortable to-day, though feeble. He has slept for the past

EX-PRESIDENT TYLER'S SON ON FAMILY

In refutation of the story that the widow of ex-President Tyler has, after lawsuits with her own and her husband's children, entered into possession of the Sherwood Forest estate, on the James River, Rev. John Tyler writes to the Floridan as

Permit me to say, if you please, that no member of my isther's family has ever had any legal controversy with my lather's widow. Her controversies in this respect have been altogether between herself and members of her own lather's family. The children of my mother, thank God, have never been known as mercenary in any sense or in any manner, and we have all had too much respect for her memory and too much regard for her teachings, as an humble follower of Christ, to have entered into any such controversies. We knew our father's wishes before his death in respect to the disposition of his estate, and, without a will on his part, would have respected them. Having bequeathed by will Snerwood Forest and all his other estate, both real and personal, to Mrs. Tyler, we all cheerfully acquiesced in his expressed wish without a murmur, accepting poverty with the termination of the war, in which we were all actively engaged throughout the unhappy struggle on the side of the South. In conclusion, suffer me to add that, as we reverse our father, we sincerely respect Mrs. Tyler and regard her with filial feeling, having for her children the affection of brothers and sisters.
